Some remarkable passages in the life of Dr. George de Benneville, late of Germantown, Pennsylvania, who departed this life in March, 1703, in the nineteenth year of his age, including what he saw and heard in a trance of forty-two hours' duration, both in the regions of happiness and misery; together with a brief account of his cruel persecution in France for preaching the gospel. Translated from the French of his own manuscript. To which is prefixed a recommendatory preface by the translator, Rev. Elnhan Winchester. A reprint from the American ed. of 1800. Rev.

De La Torre, Lillian, 1902--
The heir of Douglas; being a new solution to the old mystery of the Douglas cause, a notorious 18th century scandal over the disputed birthright of Archie Douglas, heir, or impostor? To which is added, the secret history of Andrew Stuart and his detentions in foreign parts; with a candid character of Lady Jane Douglas, the whole based upon secret records now first made public; with serious reflections on the whirligig of fortune. London, Imprinted by M. Joseph, 1955.
240 p. ports., facsim. 21 cm.
